More Vax-or-Test ETS Guidance from OSHA on Over-the-Counter Tests

"Now that the stay on the vax-or-test ETS has been lifted, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration has plunged back into its implementation activities, including updating the FAQs. Of particular interest, OSHA has added a number of questions addressing the use of over-the-counter (OTC) tests. The ETS allows for the use of COVID tests that have been cleared, approved or authorized by the Food and Drug Administration, which would include certain OTC tests. However, the ETS also provides that such tests may not be self-administered and self-read unless observed by the employer or an authorized telehealth proctor." Full Article

It's a New Year – With Many New State Minimum Wage Laws

"The new year brings a host of new state wage and hour laws. Employers should take note that as of January 1, 2022, almost half of U.S. states increased their minimum wage rate. As a result, 30 states and the District of Columbia now have minimum wage rates higher than the federal minimum wage, which has remained at $7.25 per hour for over a decade. It is important to note that many states have exceptions to their minimum wage rates for a variety of workers, including but not limited to employees of small businesses, farm workers, and tipped employees." State & International Compliance Updates

Effectively Implementing Social Media Policies in the Workplace

“The stated goal of the National Labor Relations Board (“NLRB”) is to ensure that employers are not violating Section 8(a)(1) of the National Labor Relations Act (the “Act”) by implementing a work rule that would “reasonably tend to chill employees in the exercise of their Section 7 rights.” In particular, the NLRB has focused on the precise wording and language used in employment handbooks. Although the NLRB’s yardstick in this area is apparently flexible rather than rigid, a careful understanding of applicable NLRB opinions can help employers regulate social media usage more effectively.” Full Article

Immigration Updates in COVID-19 Times

“International borders have been closed for 18 months, U.S. embassies abroad have been operating at a limited capacity, and yet employers struggle to find and retain talent. Corporate immigration, including H-1Bs and other visas, continues to provide a solution for savvy employers. Here are the most important immigration changes within the last year.” Full Article

Federal Contractors Must Ban the Box

“The Fair Chance to Compete for Jobs Act of 2019 took effect on December 20, 2021 and requires agencies to include a clause in federal contracts that prohibits contractors from requesting, either verbally or in writing, the criminal history of an applicant for work under a federal contract until after a conditional offer of employment has been made. (The “box” refers to the box on many employment applications, which must be checked if the applicant has a criminal record). There are exceptions where a criminal background check prior to the offer is required by law, the position is related to law enforcement or national security duties, or the position has access to classified information.” Full Article

Coworking Spaces: COVID-19 Considerations

“As workplaces are reimagined, employers and operators of coworking spaces need to consider how to operate safely in the age of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Coworking spaces have become an intriguing work alternative for remote employees, hybrid workers, self-employed individuals, independent contractors, and others. Employers and operators of coworking spaces should consider such issues as the security of sensitive company or employee information and compliance with COVID-19 health and safety rules, among others.” Full Article

A Blizzard of Activity from Minnesota OSHA in the New Year

"On January 3, 2022, Minnesota OSHA adopted the ETS by reference in the State Register. For Minnesota employers with 100 or more employees this means they must develop and implement a COVID-19 vaccination and testing policy by January 10, 2022. (MNOSHA indicated it will not issue citations for noncompliance with any requirements of the ETS before Jan. 10.) Further, employers must make the testing requirements of their policies operational by February 9, 2022." Full Article
